

WATCH OUT FOR BUZZING IN BONNET, SAYS COWBOY

I have found many busy people in this very busy town. But I find it difficult to proportion between them the hurry of one and the hustle of another. It strikes me, though, that in Mrs. Fanny King, I have almost struck upon the busiest person in Torrance. An astute and able real estate woman, I find that she is playing a leading part in realty affairs. Handling business properties, residential deals, oil land leases and insurance, Mrs. King, although very busy and an eminent success at her business, is not too busy to afford her every client every advantage of the realtor's profession.

Most folks about town know the progressive young Raymond Tomkins, proprietor of Torrance's first grocery store. This fellow who hails originally from San Jose, is a demon for hard work and a sticker for one hundred per cent grocery and market service. He's there on the job every day, always ready and willing to offer the public the best the market affords. It's a courteous place of shopping, and what's more, you get what you are after at this store. Remember it when you start out with the basket under your arm.

This live trio, Messrs. Gilbert, Hansen & Paige, realtors and well met gentlemen, are making things hum at their attractive offices in this city. There's real worth in that combination. Gilbert is an expert on land questions, Hansen, formerly twenty years in the mechanical department of the P. E., is a real estate man of good parts and a man you can't help but admire. And Mr. Paige, formerly an influential business man of Dallas, Texas, makes up the energetic and able three. They know Torrance and they are second to none on real estate authority.

Have you ever stopped to think of the relation of personal interests to successful shopping? There is no personal interest when you buy elsewhere; the big city merchant will

GUTTENFELDER SELLS OUTSIDE INTERESTS

Harvel Guttenfelder and his father have sold their interests in the auto electric and battery business in Compton and Gardena, and Mr. Guttenfelder Sr. has retired from the battery business, leaving the entire management of the Torrance auto electric business to his son Harvel.

The business in Torrance has grown so large that an extra outlay of cash has been expended for rent batteries in order that customers can get service such as they expect when driving into the Torrance Auto Electric station. Several other things that will turn out the work faster will be purchased within the next few days, so that the Torrance store will be made more inviting to those needing new Willard batteries and to have other batteries looked after, which is made a specialty by the alert proprietor and assistants.

Carson St. Crash Damages Cars

Slippery pavements on Carson street on Monday morning caused a collision between a Studebaker car driven by Fred Reynolds of the Dominguez Land company and a Jewett six driven by W. O. Dolley, senior member of the Dolley Drug company of Torrance.

Mr. Dolley was driving his car toward the city and was using the safety first idea of driving on slippery pavements by running his car close to the embankment with two wheels on the dirt road, when all of a sudden he was struck by the Studebaker car, which could not be controlled by its driver and skidded into the rear end of the Dolley car, smashing it so that the garage man was compelled to use his tools for several hours in fixing it. Mr. Dolley also received a severe jolt in the back, which makes it very painful for him to walk. Mr. Reynolds was unhurt, but his car was also sent to the garage for several repairs.

MACCABEE NOTES

Deputy Great Commander Mrs. Julia C. Ginn and a deputy from the north are expected to be present at the next regular meeting, Friday, Sept. 28. Members are urged to be present.
